

Tidelands Commission hears irate Hancock residents

BY D.C. HARVILL

A hearing in Bay St. Louis Tuesday night conducted by the Public Trust Tidelands Commission to gather public response to a report issued in late October degenerated into a question-and-answer session and a forum for irate citizens.

The Blue Ribbon Commission on Public Trust Tidelands was created by Mississippi Secretary of State Dick Molpus in March to help determine the state's policy concerning public trust tidelands.

When Mississippi entered the United States in 1817 the federal government granted it ownership of all lands subjected to the mean, or average, high tide to be held in trust to be used only for purposes of higher public good as determined by the legislature.

Among the approximately 100 people who attended the hearing, many were residents of Shoreline Park, Garden Isles and Herron Bay Estates and Diamondhead subdivisions, parts of which had been filled by dredge material to create waterfront lots.

Several people expressed anger that they had purchased their property in good faith, had made improvements and paid taxes for many years and now the state may take it from them.

on they may have to lease from the state.

"My father bought a piece of property a long time ago and built a camp on it. He busted this butt building it. No one is going to take it away from him or charge him one cent to lease it. I'll die before I pay you anything," Jerry Praetorius of Diamondhead argued.

Others contended that the state had not shown interest in the tidelands until recently and had been remiss in allowing the property to be sold and collecting taxes on it when they knew it was state property all along.

"If that's the way Mississippi operates, I don't want to live in Mississippi and I will not live in Mississippi," Ed Daspert of New Orleans and a Hancock County landowner said.

The state has been remiss in not enforcing this law since 1817. Even the Secretary of State on TV the other night and the state was silent in not enforcing this law," said Shoreline Park resident Harry Hancock. "I think they should grandfather this thing. Let's say you see the water there, that is where the boundary is."

Joan Younger of Waveland asked if someone could lease tidelands and build on them, if the property owner died and the heirs did not lease them.

"No one can erect a structure within the 750 yards of your riparian rights area outward from the public trust line," a commission attorney informed the group.

"Just because your property was subject to some ebb and flow of the tide before it was developed doesn't necessarily mean it belongs to the state," boundary committee member Roger Wilder explained.

Commission chairman Hugh

Kram secured the meeting, but because there is no law on the books, the property does not mean it is public trust. There is no agreement between state and local marshes.

"I think you have some good questions, but you have to be careful. You should have had the boundaries drawn before you held these meetings so people could discuss them with you intelligently," Waveland real estate agent Delmar Wilcox said.

Wilder told the group the commission had neither the time nor the money to carry out a survey of the public trust tidelands and that they are having trouble getting them to go from the best information available.

The commission will be today when the line because

County delays action on Diamondhead man's request for utility buy

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors had expected to take some action Monday regarding a request for a resolution supporting public ownership of Diamondhead's utilities, but may have an additional delay while legal research is conducted.

After hearing from Daniel Smith, who presented the board with a petition signed by 52 property owners and a request for a resolution asking Purcell, which owns the water and sewerage systems, to sell them to the property owners association, the board discovered that there is some opposition to the idea.

The POA board's current president, Elmer Tapper, protested, explaining to the board that there is a consensus of property owners regarding a proposed rate increase but that there are two factions right now that disagree regarding public ownership.

He did say that he agreed with a part of Smith's request, which asked for a separate resolution to the Mississippi Public Service Commission, protesting the rate increase.

Board of Supervisors President Ronald Cuevas asked if the two would agree to wait until Monday to allow a full board to hear both sides and vote on the matter. Beat Three Supervisor Lisa Coward and Beat Four Supervisor Wilmer Seymour were sworn in on Wednesday, but could not vote that day because bonding procedures were not yet completed.

Smith explained that Purcell had notified residents an application has been filed with the public service commission for a rate increase that would cause the average residential bill to go from about $18 to about $40 per month.

Tapper said that he has already filed a protest on behalf of the POA. The matter is on the commission's December docket, meaning that no hearing will be conducted until protests are heard.

Smith alleged that Purcell has no plans for improving the system and has already negotiated with a potential buyer who has allegedly taken over operation without commission approval.

In addition, he explained that he is interested in learning the procedure for creation of water and sewerage protection district, since he feels the present system provides inadequate service.

Tapper stated that he had not been notified regarding when Smith would present the petition and wants to discuss the matter with the POA board.

A second reason Cuevas gave for delaying the matter was the time that may be needed for Board Attorney Gerald Gex to research the appropriate action. Gex must find out, among other things, whether Smith is correct in thinking that an inadequate utility system qualifies the area for a water and sewerage protection district.

Monday's meeting begins at 9 a.m. in the upstairs boardroom in the Hancock County Courthouse.

County landfill closed, dumpsters now in use

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Landfill at Catahoula is closed, beginning today.

Beat Five Supervisor Michael Ladner said the landfill is being replaced by a dumpster site and a contractor, Hancock County Landfill, will be responsible for disposal until permits are obtained for a new landfill.

The contract with BRI becomes effective today, although the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers recently gave the county until Dec. 31 to close the present site. The matter falls under Corps jurisdiction because the landfill is on leased property owned by NASA.

The dumpsters are for household garbage only and are at three sites currently being used, one at CC Road in Standard, one on Pontiac Street in Jourdan River Shores and one on Highway 604 in Pearlinton.

New sites are at Highway

603 and 53 behind the ballpark in Nacaise, the corner of Fire Tower Road and Ponton, Dedeaux Road in Ponton, 1.8 mile north of Catahoula, Nacaise Road, the Airport Road, 2.2 miles west of the town of Bay, and on Highway 604 in Pearlinton. The site of Washington Road and Chapman Street next to the fire station in the Shoreline Park Garden Isles area.

All trash or rubbish, which includes debris such as branches, leaves and other items, must be taken to the rubbish pit at Standard.

Beat One Supervisor Robert Peterson said the contract is a measure being taken by the board until approval for a new landfill site is obtained.

According to L.B. Ladner, interim county maintenance superintendent, the present landfill site at Catahoula is closed to the public but the county will continue working on the site for some time in order to meet the requirements of federal and state regulatory agencies.

Other requirements include two to cover up the landfill with a layer of soil and to

ON PATROL

TRIAL DELAYED

The trial of a Bay St. Louis couple charged with felony child abuse has been delayed to the January term of Hancock County Circuit Court.

Judge Jerry O. Terry agreed this week to grant a request by Assistant District Attorney DeWitt Allred for a continuance in the trial of Patrick Green, 31, and Della R. Sylvester, 28, both of 123 Melody Lane.

The delay was granted because one of Allred's material witnesses in the case, a Florida woman who had served as a foster mother to the alleged victim, was unable to testify because her child had to be hospitalized in Florida after reacting to treatment for a spider bite.

The delay occurred after 36 prospective jurors had been questioned.

ARMED ROBBERY

Armed robbers struck the Junior Food Store at the corner of Highway 90 and Second Street in Bay St. Louis at approximately 11 p.m. on November 27.

According to Detective Don Osco, two black males, both 20- to 25-years-old held up the store using a black steel revolver, thought to be a .38 caliber, telling the store employee, "Give me all your money."

One of the subjects is six feet and weighing 150 pounds with medium-cut hair and wearing a blue sweat shirt with a hood, blue jeans and tennis shoes.

The other subject was five feet-nine inches tall, weighing 180 to 220 pounds. He had black, medium-cut hair and a thin mustache. He was wearing a dark blue stocking cap, a light brown wind breaker and blue jeans.

They left the store on foot headed west.

Chief Ray Murphy said this department has a couple suspects in the case and are currently trying to match them with witness's descriptions.

Detectives Osco and Tom Burleson are in charge of the investigation.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The cooler weather is a time when some residents of the area collect wood for heaters and fireplaces.

In Hancock County there are many thousands of acres of land as a buffer for the John C. Stennis Space Center.

Much of this land is still privately owned and only leased to the federal government, giving the landowners the rights to timber.

About this time each year, I begin to get reports of unauthorized persons cutting trees on land such as this. In many cases, it is even posted.

On Monday of this week, I received a telephone call from a resident telling me that two large oak trees were illegally cut on her family's property in the buffer zone over the weekend.

It is hoped everyone will respect the property of others and remember—it is a crime to cut trees from private property.

Tonight at 6 p.m., the old man from the North Pole in a red and white suit will arrive in Hancock County to take gift wishes from boys and girls.

Santa as the jolly man is called, instead of riding on a sled pulled by reindeer, will come to town on a fire engine. It seems his reindeer have a hard time in areas without snow.

The Annual Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Christmas Parade will begin at Ulfman Avenue on Beach Boulevard and will proceed along Beach to Main Street, where it will disband at the Courthouse.

Santa will be available for young boys and girls to give him a list of their Christmas wishes.

There will even be special Christmas Carols by members of RSVP.

We hope every boy and girl will come and chat with Santa on his annual visit to Hancock County.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has been receiving quite a few telephone calls in recent weeks from residents complaining about hunters.

These complaint calls include hunting on posted lands, cutting fences, discharging firearms too close to highways, dogs running on private property, and on and on.

We realize the complaints are probably the result of the actions of only a minority of the residents who hunt, but all it takes is a few to make it look bad for all hunters.

The majority of local hunters respect all of the laws and hunt only in areas where they have permission to do so.

We have heard and read about one person killed this hunting season in a nearby county and several others injured in hunting related accidents.

We do urge all hunters to please use extreme caution while hunting and to respect the property of others.

Conference to examine state's business climate

How does Mississippi's business climate look as the state approaches 1989?

That question will be answered soon, as business leaders from across the state assemble for the Mississippi Economic Council's second annual Economic Development Summit Conference in mid December.

The conference, scheduled for December 15 in Jackson, will take a look at the state's business tax climate, examine the critical tort reform issue, and evaluate the state's new economic development structure and strategy.

Some 400 business leaders from across the state are expected to attend the one-day session.

Highlights of the conference include an address by David

Rumbarger of the Alabama Development Office, the architect of that state's successful "Open to Business" marketing program after the Alabama Legislature enacted a series of tough tort reform measures; a look at state tax laws by former Treasurer Bill Cole; and a review of the state's new approach to economic development by Director Mac Holladay of the Department of Economic Development.

The conference leads up to the 1989 legislative session, when lawmakers will be called on to evaluate the state's business climate.

Hopefully, recommendations coming out of the private sector session on December 15 will receive careful consideration in the early days of the session.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Molpus proposed mail-in registration

Not so many years ago, official Mississippi policy was aimed at making it tougher for citizens to register and vote. Of course, the underlying purpose was to keep blacks out of the electoral process.

Illustrative of how far Mississippi has progressed in its racial attitudes is what Secretary of State Dick Molpus is now proposing in order to give all citizens greater access to the election system.

Molpus will ask the 1989 Mississippi Legislature to approve legislation authorizing mail-in voter registration, something that is permitted in 24 states.

"Our state has an unfortunate history of restrictive election policies that virtually excluded many of our citizens from participating in the electoral system," Molpus said. "While most of the barriers have been taken down, very little has been undertaken affirmatively to promote registration."

A federal court judge last year had removed the last vestiges of Mississippi's "dual registration" system—the requirement that a voter must register at both the county courthouse and the city hall—but the court declared that further legislative remedies should be taken to eliminate the disparity in voter registration rates of blacks and whites.

Molpus said his objective is to put in place a system that would provide broad, ongoing access to registration for all citizens and remove the state from the federal courts in voter registration matters.

"We looked at the judge's order and concluded mail-in registrations would best address the concerns in the court order and could work within our election structure," Molpus declared.

Texas has permitted mail-in voter registration since 1941. Tennessee and Kentucky have had mail-in registration for the past dozen years. South Carolina two and a half years ago became one of the most recent states to adopt the system.

"There is no way for house-bound or disabled people in our state to get to the courthouse to register. In effect, they are disenfranchised," Molpus added. "That is also true for working people who find it difficult to register during regular business hours."

Under his proposal, forms for mail-in registration would be available at banks, post offices, schools and other public places as well as the circuit clerk's office. The applicant would be required to have another resident of the county witness the application before mailing it in to the circuit clerk.

After the clerk reviews the application to determine if it is properly completed, the prospective voter would be entered on the registration rolls. The clerk would send a notice by mail to the applicant. If the notice cannot be delivered and is returned, the prospective voter's name would be removed from the voter rolls.

Voters would have to present some form of identification at the polls, such as a Social Security card, driver's license, or Medicaid card. A person without proper identification could vote an affidavit ballot.

Some critics of mail-in registration raise the question of possible fraud under the system. That point has been investigated by Molpus' staff.

"We surveyed 22 of the 24 states which now have the mail-in system, and found that fraud has not been a factor in any of the states," said Peyton Prosperi, assistant secretary of state.

Prosperi said he has already begun to work with circuit clerks around the state to get out sufficient information about the mail-in registration system. Recently three circuit clerks were taken to South Carolina to observe the system there, he said, "and they came back believing they could make it work."

However, the statewide Circuit Clerks Association, meeting a week or so ago, declined to take a formal position on the question. "Some of us are afraid of it, because we don't know exactly how it's going to work and what is going to fall on us," said one clerk.

Prosperi said the mail-in system is non-partisan. "It would benefit both the Democrats and Republicans," he said.

Republican state Sen. Roger Wicker of Tupelo, said "personally, I'm in favor of it. I think it answers the question of access to registration while also providing protection for the election system."

"This is a chance for us to take control of our own election laws, and not have to be told what to do by the courts," Molpus said.

Q. What is the difference between the State Guard and the National Guard?

A. The National Guard is a dual-purpose, federally-funded, state-operated military organization responsible for the state's security and tranquility but capable of being mobilized in a national emergency. If the National Guard is mobilized for federal service, the State Guard has responsibility for providing for the state's needs, in cases of natural disasters, civil disturbances and other breaches of the state's security or tranquility.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Property owners defend palm tree removal

To the Editor:

Since we have been criticized for the removal of several palm trees at our property on Carroll Avenue, we feel something should be said in defense.

This variety of palm is not native to this area. Those who are familiar with its characteristics know that it is a messy tree with a weak root system. It drops stems, berries and large fronds which must be constantly cleared. These particular trees were not healthy trees, as evidenced by the fact that several had already died. They were crowding two splendid live oaks. They had been wrongly planted in a very narrow space much too close to the curb.

We considered them a hazardous eyesore and are, frankly, surprised at any objection to their removal. The City of New Orleans tried to cultivate palm trees on Canal Street, and eventually had to take them down.

Nevertheless, as plant enthusiasts, we tried for several weeks to find a way to save them by offering to give them away. We found, however, the root system too close to the curb, and concluded removal was the best solution. Since the city had neither planted nor cared for the trees, it did not seem that removal was a transgression.

We have planted more than 25 trees at our former residence in Bay St. Louis. We are particularly fond of live oaks and other hardwoods which are clean and provide shade.

There are some who have approved this removal. To those who have been offended, we apologize—we really thought we were improving the neighborhood.

Sincerely,
William H. McCandless

Welfare Department procedure criticized

To the Editor:

We've created a lot of "monsters" in our society. Unions, for example. Another that particularly peeves me is the Welfare Department. Both were founded with good intent, but soured with abuse. I want to address just one of the evils of the Welfare Department right now. That is, how some meddling social workers wrongly try to tell parents how to raise their kids.

In the first place, they have no authority to tell parents they can't spank their children. No law in this country forbids it. Their job is to protect children from abusive parents, not to antagonize parents who are doing their God-given duty in disciplining their kids. Proverbs 20:30 says that the stripes from a good sound whipping "cleanses away evil." I can personally vouch for that.

Many parents genuinely fear to do any more than pitter-patter their children's bottoms for fear that the Welfare Department will take their children away. I ask the leadership of the Welfare Department to have social workers make it clear to families that you in now way intend to hinder conscientious disciplining.

If something is not done to alleviate these fears (which are shared by a large number of families), then ten years from now, we'll have to close the Welfare Office and build an annex onto the county jail.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi
Economic Council

Lack of tort reform inhibits economic growth

Tort reform is an economic development issue.

The lack of tort reforms affects everyone in Mississippi from the most successful business man to the young boy who wants to play little league baseball. Due to the high cost of liability insurance, businesses must raise their prices, so any consumer in the state feels the effect of not having tort reforms.

Civil justice reforms involve changing some unfair and inequitable rules governing our legal system. Over the past several years, the cost of liability insurance has escalated beyond reason due to increased liability exposure of the state's business community.

The primary problem is an increase in the number of lawsuits, an increase in the size of the awards, a decrease in the predictability of the system, and the unfairness of a system that punishes regardless of the degree of fault.

The executive director of the American Tort Reform Association, Blair Childs, in an address to the Mississippi Economic Council's Board of Directors, explained that tort reform could be the most difficult fight the states have ever fought for economic development.

MEC, the state's largest business organization, will be leading this fight for economic development in the coming legislative session. Anyone interested in seeing the obstacles removed that have hampered Mississippi's economic advancement, contact your legislator and express that opinion. The time for action is now.

Castello elected chamber president

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Randy Castello, Mississippi Power Company supervisor of the Bay-Pass area was elected president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday.

Castello was elected by the chamber's new board of directors along with Basil Kennedy, vice-president; and Steven Benvenutti, treasurer. Kennedy is vice-president of Deposit Guaranty National Bank and Benvenutti is a Bay St. Louis attorney in private practice and serves as a Hancock County Public Defender.

The new officers will assume their chamber positions at the annual Installation and Christmas Banquet to be held on December 9 at the Diamond-head Country Club.

The new elected directors by chamber membership for three years were, Craig Foster, Rae Anne Ryan, Bruce Campbell, Steven Benvenutti, and Dusty Rhodes.

Foster is the area investment representative for Edward D. Jones & Company, a member of the New York Stock Exchange; Ryan is the owner/manager of Tickets, Inc.; Campbell is assistant to the president of Mason Chamberlain at the John C. Stennis Space Center; and Rhodes is senior vice-president of Merchants Bank & Trust.

Foster, Ryan and Campbell are new on the board while Rhodes was re-elected to serve another three years and Steven Benvenutti was a prior appointed director.

Resigning from the board of directors because of business conflicts were Charles Benvenutti and Rick Eagan.

Theresa Heath was appointed to replace Charles Benvenutti while Basil Kennedy replaced Eagan. Eagan is the outgoing president and Charles Benvenutti was vice-president. The two terms are to expire in 1990.

Heath is owner of Trend Setters of Bay St. Louis. Other members of the board include Jerry Heitzman, Carl Guy, David Hubbard, John Mason, Buz Olsen, David Treutel Sr. and Phil Wolfe.

The chamber's officers and board of directors consists of 20 members.

The new chamber president will meet with the board prior to the installation to receive approval of four more appointed board members for one year terms.

The chamber meets regularly on the fourth Tuesday of each month.

soil over that and grass, Ladner said.

He added that Compton Engineering, the firm assisting the county with the applications for new landfill sites, is helping with the covering project.

Four of five sites that the Mississippi Bureau of Geology tested earlier this year show characteristics that indicate permits are obtainable.

All are north of Interstate-10, where there is more probability of finding enough of the types of clay required for a sanitary landfill.

One of the problems the county has had with the present landfill is an uneven availability of the clay, a layer of which is used as a seal to keep dangerous compounds given off by decaying garbage from leaching into groundwater supplies.

The supervisors, in doing research on long and short-term solutions to solid waste disposal, have learned from state officials that the average time for permitting can vary from six months to two years, but the board is trying to expedite the process, Peterson said.

The new landfill is a short-term solution and the board has indicated that potential long-term solutions may include incineration of garbage. In addition, the supervisors have already looked into a joint solution with Pearl River County, which must presently contract for waste disposal and hauling because it has no landfill.

Sand beach authority seeks supervisors help for comprehensive plan

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has agreed to a resolution request from the Hancock County Sand Beach Authority.

The request was presented by John Scaife Jr., a member of the authority, and asks for a comprehensive sand beach restoration and Beach Road reconstruction and improvement program financed with seawall funds.

The authority is asking that the only money taken out of the seawall fund be that needed for annual maintenance, but that such repairs be kept minimal until accurate cost estimates are available on the more extensive work; the group feels the bulk of the money needs to go into an escrow account to finance a major restoration project.

The board has been asked to consider the execution of the total project if the costs of repair and renovation is not more than the seawall tax collections.

The sand beach authority, after consultation with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Sand Beach Advisory Council and others, has also asked the supervisors to decide whether to continue a feasibility study started by the previous administration.

The study was designed to determine if shore protection in the county merited federal funding. The Corps has been working on the study and using county funds, with the most recent action on the matter being the soil borings taken from the floor of the Mississippi

Sound, County Engineer Larry Seal stated.

The borings were made to determine if there is enough sand of a high enough grade to replenish the beach.

Seal also stated that the board's acceptance of the sand beach authority resolution will not have any effects on a planned overlay of the Beach Road.

The board meets again at 9 a.m. Monday.

HEALTHNOTES

Contributed by Hancock Medical Center

The holiday season is here. And for most people that means lots of good food. But some doctors say too much of a good thing could be hazardous to our health.

"During the holidays, even health-conscious people seem to make more allowances than they ought," said Dr. Bert Chevish, Hancock Medical Center chief of staff. "Most everyone cheats on their diet, that's normal," he said, "but practicing good health-sense throughout the holidays will mean less work getting back into shape in the spring."

To ensure a healthy diet, nutritionists say there are three basic tips to remember:

*eat plenty of high-fiber foods such as whole grains and fresh fruits and vegetables

*avoid a lot of food with high sugar content

*avoid foods high in saturated fat.

"Often people are unaware of the amount of saturated fat in their food," said Jamie Rodenbaugh, MS, RD, consulting dietician at Hancock Medical Center. "Total fat intake of the average individual should be no more than 30 percent of total calories."

Saturated fats are those found in animal products such as meat, cheese and butter. Some vegetables are also a source for saturated fats, such as cocoa butter and coconut oil. Saturated fats are also harmful to the heart because they raise cholesterol levels.

Monounsaturated fats, though having no effect on cholesterol levels, contain fat-dense calories. Olives, olive oil, peanuts, peanut oil, peanut butter, pecans, cashews, almonds and avocado are sources of this type of fat. They, too, should be limited in consumption.

Polyunsaturated fats should be substituted for saturated fats whenever possible. The difference in the two is that polyunsaturated fats are in liquid form at room temperature whereas saturated fats are solid. Polyunsaturated fats should constitute 20 percent of daily calories and can be found in vegetable oils such as sunflower, soybean, corn and sesame.

When thinking of healthy holiday cooking this season, Rodenbaugh suggests a few "eat-right" tips to keep in mind:

*Avoid fried foods. Try baked, broiled or roasted foods.

*Choose lean meats like fish and chicken instead of beef and pork.

*Use fat-free or low-fat dairy products.

*Increase consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables.

*Limit intake of caffeine-rich beverages.

*Moderate alcohol consumption.

*Remove skin from poultry and trim fat from meat.

*Use ground round or ground chuck in place of ground beef, since they contain less fat.

"Also, watching the amount of salt consumed in a diet will help lead to better health," Rodenbaugh said. "You are what you eat, and eating healthy is the best way to ensure a happy, healthy holiday season."

For more information on eating right this holiday season, contact your physician or call Hancock Medical Center at 467-9081, ext. 2240.

BACK TO NATURE

Absence of birds often just temporary

It happens every year. Same time, same place, same way. Every one comes into my shoppe, stands at the door and says, "Where are the birds?"

I'll never forget the first year I noticed it: the absence of birds at my feeders during the Fall months. The year before was the year I'd "discovered" feeding with sunflower seeds and the invasion of birds that I'd never seen at my feeders was incredible. I was in heaven enjoying the colors of the rainbow flitting before my eyes, two feet from my kitchen sink. The sizes were as varied as the colors!

Then one day they were gone!! What had I done wrong? Was my seed mixture bad? Was a hawk around? Just what had happened I didn't know. But I remember the empty feeling. A sense of loss that you feel when your best friend moves.

Around Thanksgiving, though, there they were again. Notice I say "around Thanksgiving." It all depends on the weather.

So, as my story unfolds, I will tell you that I noticed this every year for several years. Far be it from me to notice something without understanding "WHY." So, I delved and came up with several answers to why birds don't need us September through November, sometimes even December.

First of all, remember the Summer. All of the young fledglings screaming their lungs out at Mom and Pop Cardinal, Blue Jay, etc. Mom and Pop look frazzled with worn feathers from all the work. Some of these guys have three and four broods of young each Summer, bringing huge demands on the adults to supply food and protection.

It's no easy task. When people tell me they do not feed birds in the Summer, I get real adamant about how hard it is on the adult birds to supply four, five, or six young with food. To me, it makes more sense to increase your feeding at that time.

I also remind people about the fact that we are still decreasing the natural food sources within and around communities at alarming rates. An acre cleared here for a house, two cleared there, ten somewhere else, and it adds up at an alarming rate. We hear a lot about South America clearing the rain forest, but it goes on around us, here in Hancock County, every day.

So, Summer finds the tasks for birds increased. It's a tough job April through August.

But, ah, August. That last fledgling has flown. He can flap those begging wings at Mom and Pop all he wants towards the end of the month, but all to no avail. The adults look away and bounce off leaving junior to look at the feeder he's perched upon, all alone. Soon the young are feeding themselves. The young Mockingbird is pulling a worm from the ground.

Each adult has fulfilled his job by passing on all of the skills necessary for survival of these brand new birds. Some of the new birds cannot be distinguished from the older ones and yet some of the young are so motley and uncoordinated that they bring a smile to my face. (The young woodpeckers are by far the funniest.)

No young to feed. What relief. The weather is still warm, unfortunately for us humans, and the grass is still growing. The insects are still flying abundantly about and the demands are lessened. Berries are all about us: purple, reds, oranges. The popcorn trees have popped their interesting seeds that attract so many birds. It's just a very interesting time if you really look about.

In my yard, it's quiet at the feeders, but the Cat Bird rustles in the impatiens. The Brown Thrasher, the Mockingbird and the Wrens are on the ground below the pyracantha, rustling up the worms and critters from the ground. White-throated sparrows, so sweet, sit on the fences and in the brush. They've had a long trip from the North and are just resting for a while. The brilliant red Cardinals "hide" in the bushes but rarely come to the feeders. Others like the Chickadees and Titmouses are here and about, but not nearly the numbers I had two or three months ago. I guess the young have moved to their own area.

This year I don't worry about no birds at my feeder. Experience has taught me to enjoy not being needed. Soon that will change, within the next few weeks; as soon as it gets cold.

Today dawned cold. Assuming that the time for increased sunflower seed consumption was approaching, I went out to shore up the feeders. Sure enough, more birds were stirring. But the best sound of all was the loud chatter of that infamous Buff-bellied Hummingbird. One was in my yard in October for four days. Now, today, Monday, November 28, another one is here. It's a different one. This one is louder and definitely king of this yard. The flowers, still blooming just for him, belong to him. He has no fear of me and lets his presence known.

Thought for this time: Thank God birdwatching has "come out of the closet."

THE BIG BANG: A SOUND THEORY

If all the world made its first round
Because of some tumultuous sound,
Then something caused this go-around
Or else the theory is not sound.
In turn, this question goes around;
What caused the things that caused the sound?

Father Stack has announced Saturday, Dec. 3 Confirmation classes will be at 3 p.m. in the parish hall. This is the last chance for those who have not registered. If they attend this coming Saturday they will be able to make their Confirmation with the 20 students who have been attending regularly.

CCD classes for public schools students in grades first through seventh will be held 10 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 3 in the parish hall.

Sunday, Dec. 4 St. Ann's 9:30 a.m. Mass will be offered for all living and deceased members of St. Ann-St. John Parish.

CYO members meet each Monday, 7 p.m. in the parish, Clermont Harbor, for the group's weekly meeting.

SENIOR CITIZENS HAPPENINGS

By Eve McDonald

Holiday activities listed

CHRISTMAS PARTY

We are looking forward to our Christmas lunch provided by the American Legion Post No. 139 and served by their auxiliary.

Our party this year will be Dec. 14 and will be limited to those who have been active in our center and RSVP for the last three months. The Legion cannot provide food for an unlimited number of persons.

We would appreciate you giving your name to Rosine Jushaway at 467-9292 or to RSVP at 467-9204 if you would like to attend. We can only take 300 reservations. You cannot bring out-of-town company or outside friends as this would keep some of our folks out. Sorry!

Mayor Victor Frankiewicz has agreed to provide the entertainment again this year. He and his gang are lots of fun and we really appreciate his time and talent.

We will have nice door prizes and will also raffie our quilt and some afghans with the money going to our programs.

We hope all of you will come and make this a great party for this special time of the year.

TRAVEL CLUB
The next trip will be the cruise to the Yucatan. The time is Jan. 7 and the full price is $645.

Don't forget the London/Paris trip at the end of May. We hope to get this trip for about $800 each for the week. Some of us are taking grandchildren on this once-in-a-lifetime special. Think about it and call Tee Oliver if you are interested 467-9292 in the morning, and 467-3780 is her home number.

NEW BUILDING SPACE
The city is moving our office and that of RSVP into new quarters the end of this month.

We will be where the old Civil Defense office used to be. The city is renovating the space and it really looks like it will be very nice.

Class rooms will continue to be in the same places with a new entrance on the Old Spanish Trail. We will be needing a few new decorations for our new space. Will advise later if any of you can help with donations of time or effort. You have always responded with good ideas and assistance.

THANKS, SHERIFF PETERSON

All of our seniors enjoyed some of the potatoes and onions the Sheriff donated from the drug bust. They also provided some greens from their farm, but most of the seniors were gone and they have promised more another time so Tee and her kitchen helpers can cook some for our lunch crowd. We are so fortunate that so many of our folks remember the seniors when they have extras. Thanks! WXGR 1190

We have been on the radio all week about 7:30 a.m. telling the audience about happenings at the center. Hope you have been listening to our local station. We need to support our local businesses and people.

CHRISTMAS CLOSING

We will be closed Dec. 23 through 27 for Christmas. We will be open on Dec. 28 through 30 and closed again Jan. 2.

Those on meals-on-wheels will receive a cold pack for the weekdays that we are closed.

Some of the local agencies are giving us special gifts for our 33 meals-on-wheels clients and we and they appreciate their thoughtfulness.

Musical 'Cole' presented by Slidell Little Theatre

Slidell Little Theatre's third production of their 1988-89 season is "Cole," a revue based on the words and music of Cole Porter. It will open December 2 and play Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. through December 17 with a 3 p.m. matinee December 11.

"Cole" is directed by Tracy Nugent, assisted by Grace Marshall. John J. Dendinger is musical director and accompanist, and Joan Garner is designing the set that will showcase the musical numbers.

Singers and dancers include Nancy Eppert, Lynne LaGrosso, Mina Lanzas, Malaica Strom of Bay St. Louis, Rita Stiller, Sandy Effler, James Edmonston, Derek Mittelstaedt, Bob Fry, Myron Miller, Joe Sanders and Richard and Shelley Schiro. They will take turns or join in singing, dancing and occasionally narrating assorted "Porteriana" from the well-to-the not-so-well known.

"Cole" was originally presented at the Mermaid Theatre in London in 1974, and was described by a "New Yorker" reviewer as a "highly resourceful and tasteful little musical revue." It opened Boston's fall theatre season in 1982 and was recently performed in Kenner.

Cole Porter, the wealthy young man for whom song-writing began as a diversion, was a most sophisticated man with a song by the 1930s. He achieved startlingly novel and haunting musical effects with ideas he had picked up in exotic foreign lands on his travels.

Voodoo rhythms from Haiti, drumbeats from Morocco, twanged accents he had noted down when visiting cannibal islands in the East Indies, found their way into his compositions - and account for the strains in such songs as "What Is This Thing Called Love?" "Begin the Beguine" and "Night and Day" sounding as if they were straight from the Casbah.

Porter also wrote lyrics to his music that reflected the fashionableness of his own life and evoked a response not only from the elite but from cab drivers, newsboys, and dish-washers. No one else in America, except perhaps Ogden Nash, was so adept in managing unexpected rhymes in unconventional places.

Slidell Little Theatre is pleased to present this evening with Cole Porter during the holiday season. Reservations are now being accepted from season members and patrons for the six evening performances and the December 11 matinee.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1988-1B

Parker, DeRouen fights to be featured Dec. 10

BY DENA BISNETTE
Chad Parker and Rusty DeRouen will be just two of the featured contenders when boxing makes its return to Hancock County Dec. 10.

Parker, 18, is a former national amateur champ who has won all three of his professional fights by knock out. A six-footer who weighs 155 pounds, he will face 150-pound Roy Lee King of Jackson, Ala., who is 10-4 with six knock outs.

DeRouen, 21, has held numerous amateur titles, but left the sport for a time when he chose baseball over boxing while attending Biloxi High School and Mississippi Gulf Coast Junior College.

He said he then spent a couple of years "doing other things and getting into all kinds of street fights."

He returns to the ring Dec. 10 to make his pro debut during the show at the Hancock County Fairgrounds.

The five-foot-nine DeRouen will face 150-pound Griffin Goldman of Mobile, Ala., who has a 7-1 record with six KO's.

Promoter Fred Williams, who is putting on the Dec. 10 show with the Hancock County Lawmen's Association, calls Bay St. Louis "the greatest boxing town on the Coast" and says Parker and DeRouen should be big drawing cards for the event.

He said several national promoters have shown interest in Parker because the fighter has a lot of exceptional boxing skills.

He also hits exceptionally hard.

"If he can't take a punch, it will be short," Williams said of Parker's opponent.

Parker said he has seen his opponent fight before.

"He shows experience in the ring, but with the crowd, I'll come out the victor," Parker said.

Williams immediately added that his fighter's major fault is "being too modest."

He also said Parker's three previous fights had gone "standing room only" in Biloxi.

While Parker's forte is skill in boxing, DeRouen is a converted street brawler, Williams said. "Maybe he's got a complex because he's small, I don't know. But there's no doubt about his skills," the promoter stated.

DeRouen said that although the Dec. 10 fight is his pro debut and he knows nothing about his opponent, "he's going down."

Williams said he expects both fighters to be world-class champions within the next two or three years, but DeRouen has something special.

"He has terrific power and he's the kind of fighter you have to watch real, real close. You don't go to get popcorn or turn around to talk to your girlfriend or anything, or you'll miss it. Rusty will be worth the price of admission, just his fight."

He added that one of the more interesting points he sees in watching DeRouen is that the young fighter reverts to his street brawler style when an opponent begins to give him a challenge.

The Dec. 10 card will also include Joe Louis Goodman of Bay St. Louis and several other Gulf Coast fighters, including Tony "Rock" Gennarelli and Adolpho Washington.

A limited number of Las Vegas-style table seating will be available and those tickets are $15 reserved. General admission is $10.

Tickets may be purchased locally at Loiacano's Health Club, Trapani's and First Precinct Restaurant and Lounge.

Williams said part of the proceeds of the event will benefit the Hancock County Lawmen's Association.

The show begins at 7:30 p.m. in the fairgrounds building.

SSC defeats Long Beach, 60-55

Led by Shannon Garrett's 25 points, the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws handed the Long Beach Bearcats their sixth consecutive loss as the Rocks defeated Long Beach 60-55 in varsity basketball action last Tuesday evening at Long Beach.

The game was tied 22-22 at halftime, and after three quarters the Rocks held a 39-37 advantage. In the final quarter, SSC exploded for 23 points to earn a five point decision.

Other leading scorers for the Rocks were Chris Perrone with 12 points, followed by Bert Dean with 8 points, Gregg Schuff with 7 points, while Chad Matthews and Mike Cromwell each added 3 points.

In the Junior Varsity contest, Long Beach beat the Rocks 41-35 behind Linney McWilliams' 12 points. Scott Pience paced the Rock-A-Chaws with 14 points.

SSC resumes play this Friday when they host the Catholic Tournament beginning Friday evening at the Rock-A-Chaw gymnasium.

BASKETBALL TOURNEY

St. Stanislaus will host its annual Catholic school basketball tournament Friday and Saturday at the Brother Peter Memorial Gym, with the first game set for 6:30 p.m. between St. Stanislaus and St. John.

The tournament continues at 6:30 p.m. Saturday with a girls' final between St. John and Mercy Cross.

The public is invited.

SSC Junior High teams split with Long Beach

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw Junior High basketball team won one and lost one against the visiting Long Beach Bearcats in basketball action at the Rock-A-Chaw gym last Tuesday.

In the eighth grade contest, Long Beach led 13-12 at the end of the first quarter, but outscored the Rocks 15-4 in the second quarter to take a 28-16 halftime advantage. The Bearcats threw a halfcourt trap press on the Rock-A-Chaws in the second quarter to upset the rhythm of the Rock-A-Chaws.

The Rocks fought back in the second half, and with three minutes remaining in the game SSC took a 35-34 lead, but the Rocks got into foul trouble and had two of their leading scorers and rebounders foul out of the game, as Long Beach edged out a 47-39 victory.

Coach Larry Ramsey's ninth grade boys defeated Long Beach 45-37 behind the 23-point output of Brandon Smith. Mickey Quinlan added 10 points to the Rock-A-Chaw effort.

St. Stanislaus is 2-0 in ninth grade action, while eighth grade owns a 2-1. The Rocks are in action next Monday, Dec. 5 when they host St. Paul's from Covington in the new Rock-A-Chaw gym.

USM workouts prepare team for Independence Bowl Dec. 23

After spending two weeks lifting weights and running on their own, University of Southern Mississippi football players resumed workouts Nov. 28 in preparation for the Dec. 23 Independence Bowl.

According to head coach Curley Hallman, his Eagles worked Nov. 28, 29 and 30 to take off Dec. 1 and 2 to allow the coaching staff to put in a long weekend of recruiting, get in a full week of regular afternoon workouts Dec. 5-9, continue with more of the same the following week (Dec. 12-16) while preparing for and taking semester exams, hold a final on-campus workout Dec. 19 and depart for Shreveport, La., and the Independence Bowl in the following morning.

In Shreveport, the team will headquarter at the Radisson Hotel, and hold daily workouts at Capt. Shreve High School. The first bowl-site workout is scheduled for Tuesday afternoon (Dec. 20) with Wednesday and Thursday sessions to follow before the Friday night game.

"After some 15 weeks of workout without a break, the time off the players have had was much-needed," said Hallman. "We have used the time to get players healthy from nagging injuries that aren't able to get well during the regular season. The players have done a good job of lifting and running on their own, and I don't think we'll have any problem picking up where we left off at the end of the regular season.

"Bowl games should be a reward for a job well done. They should be fun, and we'll make every effort to insure that the players enjoy themselves. It also is important to win as the players all know, and I'm sure they'll be able to combine their fun with hard work."

The Independence Bowl trip will be the second for the Golden Eagles who played there in 1980 (beating McNeese State 16-14), and the first bowl trip since a 1981 visit to the Tangerine Bowl where they lost to Missouri 19-17.

USM and Texas-El Paso (then Texas Western) have played only once previously, in the 1953 Sun Bowl with the Miners winning 37-14. UTEP recently beat San Diego State to wrap up a 10-2 season, thus giving the Independence Bowl teams with 19 victories and only four losses. The two teams were tied at 23rd in the most recent Associated Press rankings, and the winner stands a good chance of breaking into the top 20 in the final poll of the season.

The complete Golden Eagle bowl schedule is:

Dec. 1-2—Team off, coaches recruiting

Dec. 5-9—Team workouts each afternoon

Dec. 12-16—Team workouts each afternoon

Dec. 19—Final campus workout

Dec. 20—Bus to Shreveport, La. Leave campus at 8 a.m. (Headquarter at the Radisson). Afternoon workout at Capt. Shreve HS

Dec. 21—Single afternoon workout at Capt. Shreve HS (Team attends Fellowship of Christian Athletes; breakfast at 7:30 at Bossier City Civic Center) Team attends "Big Band Bash" at Expo Hall at 7 p.m.

Dec. 22—Single workout at Capt. Shreve HS (Teams attend pep rally/bonfire at Expo Hall)

Dec. 23—Independence Bowl, game time 7 p.m.

PRC football coaches featured in All-Star game

Pearl River Community College's football staff will lead the South All-Stars to battle Saturday, Dec. 3, in the annual Mississippi Community and Junior College All-Star Classic.

Bill Ward, director of the Classic, said the game is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on the Northeast Mississippi Community College campus in Booneville.

East Mississippi Community College's J.C. Arban and his staff will coach the North team and PRC's Mike Nelson and his staff will lead the South.

Coach Arban was head coach at Pearl River College for 10 years before Nelson was hired four years ago. The Wildcats put together a 6-3-1 record this past year, while Arban's team posted a 7-3 overall ledger. Both teams finished in third place in their respective divisions.

Pearl River's staff of Nelson, Herbert Morris, Bill Martin, Mike Harris, Jim Nightengale, and trainer Doc Hudson will also have four Wildcats with them during the week.

PRC sophomores Roland Johnson, Anthony Bowie, Louis Gholar and Greg Necaise will be participating.

Northeast is playing host to the game for the second year after reviving it following its loss of sponsorship. Thirty players from six North Division schools and seven South Division schools will arrive for practice November 30 and be lodged in Corinth. They'll be transported for practice and meals on the Northeast campus and have an opportunity to meet with senior college scouts and coaches during the evening hours.

Holmes Junior College will not be represented because they accepted an invitation to play a bowl game.

Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. For ticket information, contact the Northeast Mississippi Community College Business Office at 728-7751, extension 282.

PRC hosts basketball tournament Dec 1-3

The Pearl River Community College basketball team would like nothing better than to be a bad host during this week's Coke Classic tournament, but to do it, the Wildcats will have to start playing better defense and pull down more rebounds.

The Cats will host the six-team, three-day Pearl River Coke Classic starting Thursday. The tourney will include squads from Bossier Parish Community College, Delgado Community College, Gulf Coast Community College, Natchez Junior College and Pensacola Junior College.

Pensacola and Natchez will square off in the first game at 4:30 p.m. Thursday in the Marvin R. White Coliseum. Gulf Coast will play Bossier Parish at 6 p.m., and PRC will play Delgado at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Pensacola and Bossier Parish will play in the early game, while Gulf Coast and Delgado play at 6 p.m. PRC will face Natchez will face off at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday, Pensacola will play Delgado at 1 p.m., and PRC will play Bossier Parish at 2:30 p.m. Gulf Coast and Natchez will play at 4 p.m. in the tournament's final game.

While the Cats, who began the year with only two returning players, have struggled to a 3-6 record to start the season, head coach Peter Georgian said he saw some signs of improvement during his team's participation in the Pensacola Thanksgiving Classic last week.

Overall, Georgian said, the team played well to finish third in what he described as a very competitive tournament. The Wildcats took third with a 91-77 victory of L.B. Wallace of Alabama.

However, PRC still has a lot of improving to do.

The team is pulling in only nine offensive and 12 defensive rebounds per game, while Georgian said an acceptable average is 30 to 40.

Lady Wildcats begin play

Going into the Pearl River Community College Lady Wildcat Classic, which was held Nov. 21-22, PRC coach Polly Kirkland said if her team could not cut down on turnovers they would lose to Itawamba, which entered the tourney with a 4-0 record.

Kirkland was right. And how. The Lady Indians shot 59 percent from the floor to beat their host 97-78.

"We shot 50 percent and got beat (by) 19," Kirkland said.

While Itawamba's ability to score "inside, outside and everywhere," Kirkland said turnovers did not help matters at all.

The Lady Cats have been averaging 18 turnovers per game, and in the championship game of their own tournament, they gave the ball away 25 times.

"I expected us to play better," Kirkland, whose team fell to 5-2, said.

She added that failure to handle pressure defense is what is causing most of the turnovers.

"I'm dissatisfied with our ball handling and passing," she said. "We're not handling the pressure defense at the guard position very well."

She added that the team can continue to expect pressure defense. "We're going to have to learn to handle it."

The Lady Cats will play their first South Division foe in a road game Tuesday with East Central, they will then head to Texas for the Panola Junior College Classic.

PRC will play Trinity Valley in the first round of the tournament Friday, then play host Panola Junior College Saturday.

USM senior named all-Metro volleyball player

It took four years of hard work and a lot of sweat, but senior hitter Sharon Montgomery finally has something to show for her efforts.

The 5-2 Mobile, Ala. native was named to the all-Metro volleyball team for 1988. She is the first USM player ever to be named to the all-conference team.

"Sharon has worked hard and I couldn't think of a player more deserving than her," head coach Helen Grant said. "She has been a leader and an inspiration to the team."

In 1985, Montgomery was the first USM player selected on the Metro all-tournament team as a freshman.

Other all-Metro selections include Mindy Backus and Tina Durbin of Cincinnati, Stephanie Pflughought and Tammy Correll of South Carolina, Maggie Philigence, Deanne Kaleta and Nancy Gaspardarek of Florida State, Theresa Macklin and Robin Bock of Louisville, Rhonda Kottke and Clare Dirksen of Memphis State and Elizabeth Willson of Virginia Tech.

"I am very honored to be the first USM player ever chosen for the all-conference team," Montgomery said. "I was surprised to say the least."

Montgomery finished her illustrious career at USM as the all-time career leader in digs (1,380), most digs in a single season (441), most digs in a single game (43) and most hitting attempts in a season (1,248). She was also ranked third in hitting percentage behind former Lady Eagles Sheila Sims and Laura Bjorklund.

This season she led the team in kills (252), digs (286) and was second in hitting percentage (.177).

USM lost in the first round of the Metro tournament to eventual champion Florida State and finished the season with a 15-18 record. Florida State has won the last four championships.

Moms that matter

Local schools rely on volunteer mothers for moral, financial support

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Mothers of school-age children are not just brownie-bakers anymore!

They are volunteer financial planners; entertainers, hostesses, chefs and architects of some of the most successful fundraisers on the Coast. Local private schools no longer rely on them to provide the "lagnappe" but depend on their monetary contributions to cover operating expenses.

Two successful projects are Coast Episcopal Schools' "Toast to the Coast" and Our Lady Academy's "International Food Fest", both originated and orchestrated by mothers of the schools' students.

"Every private (Catholic) school relies on three methods of meeting budget—tuition, assistance from the church and fundraising efforts," according to OLA principal Sister Jacqueline Howard. "Fundraisers are necessary to keep the cost of education down. They are the only things that keep tuition from going out of sight."

Coast Episcopal Elementary School principal Betsy Grant concurs, adding that one of the pluses in parent involvement is that "In private education, parents are taking part of the responsibility of the operation of our school. It is the only way we can survive—the parents ARE our school. A number of our students are on some form of scholarship, and the monies raised help to fund this, as well as pay salaries."

The Toast to the Coast began five years ago to showcase the talents of area artists, entertainers and restaurateurs—and to fill a financial void in the schools' budget. Extremely well-received, it has grown to be one of the Coast's most visible fundraising efforts.

Pass Christian resident Julie Westervelt introduced the idea to the Parent-Teacher Organization five years ago, having been active in fundraising projects with Junior League and private schools in New Orleans.

Then-PTO President Mary Mizell of Diamondhead was skeptical about the success of the event—taking into consideration the number of restaurants needed to donate food and services and the number of items required to make a successful auction.

Thanks to Westervelt's unfailing optimism, the hard work of several mothers and the generosity of the community, the event has grown to be one of the most anticipated "social highlights" of the year on the Coast, according to Mizell.

An enjoyable evening is offered in the form of a culinary repast and dancing under the stars with the enticement of bidding on a wide array of unique items and services donated by Coast businesses and individuals.

But, the glamorous evening does not unfold quite as effortlessly as it may appear. Planning begins six months ahead of the designated date, and work continues until the last borrowed chair is returned to its owner.

Our Lady Academy's Food Fest, now in its sixth year, offers small "gourmet" portions of ethnic foods prepared by OLA moms (and a few dads). Audrey Comeaux, one of the originators, fashioned the fundraiser after the successful "Festival Acadienes" in Lafayette, La.

After several years of church-fair type events, Comeaux felt that the community would be receptive to a change. "A lot of ethnic groups were represented among our parents, and we made use of their talents," Comeaux stated.

The result was a financial success, and much more fun, according to Comeaux. It seems that where there is good food, the crowds are sure to follow.

Live entertainment was featured nightly, and a mini-craft show and sale encircled the food booths. Popular this year were the Cajun and Oriental booths, according to Grace Santa Cruz, co-chairman. Other offerings included Greek, French, Italian, Mexican and Western Barbecue among twelve booths.

Primarily manned by mothers, a few dads also pitch in—including one who was coerced this year who is already eagerly planning his next stint, according to Santa Cruz.

Students are also involved, making the efforts family-oriented.

"The cooperation between school and parents builds a better rapport, with all working toward a common end. The experience is so valuable. The importance of education is emphasized to children who see their parents working so hard for our school," said Grant.

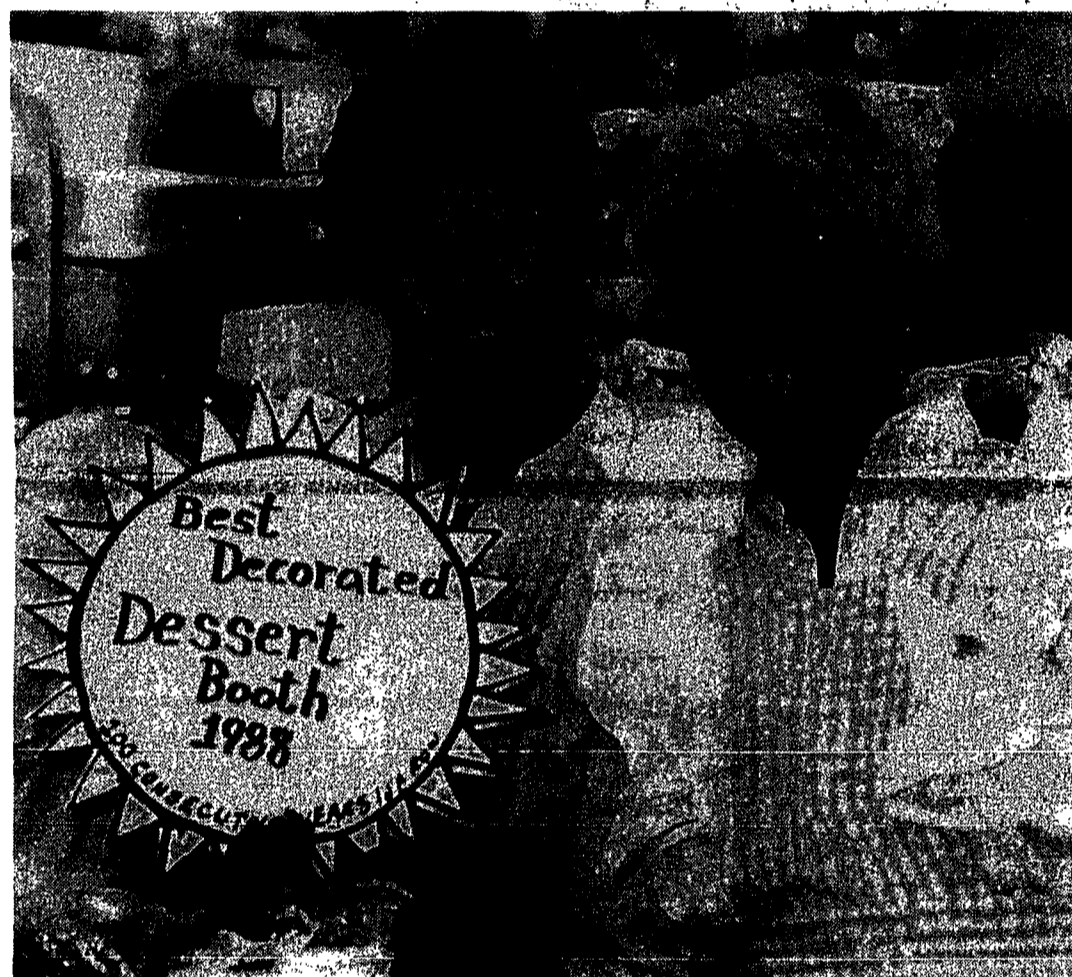

Westervelt, who was a private school teacher for 8 years, agrees that parents who are involved in school projects have a much greater awareness of the child's environment at school, fostering better relationships between home and school.

"Our parents give what they can in the way of talent," according to Grant. "In addition to the more obvious contribution of Toast to the Coast, we also have volunteer landscape architects, plumbers and photographers, to name a few. Every Friday parents cook for our school, from soup to nuts. The kids eat 'family-style', and getting to see their mothers helping out sends a nice message."

Children learn by example. By seeing their parents working as volunteers, the students of today may be the premier fundraisers of tomorrow.

JACK OF ALL TRADES—Toast to the Coast co-chairman Mary Mizell depicts the setting for the glamorous event several hours before guests arrive. Other mothers assumed equally 'unglamorous' roles as they hauled tables and chairs, set up auction items, blew up balloons and performed other decorating chores. (Photo by Janet McQueen)

Washington trip offered to juniors

Coast Electric has an exciting opportunity for all eleventh grade high school students. Two junior class students will be selected to represent Coast Electric for a week-long, expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. in June 1989.

What does a student have to do to be eligible for the trip? Simply enter the Coast Electric Washington Youth Tour Essay Contest. The contest is open to eleventh grade students and all that is required is that you submit a written essay using the title "Electric Cooperatives - the Spark guiding Economic Development." Students can write their essay from any viewpoint, using a variety of research and background material or merely stating their interpretation of the title topic.

Essays are to be 500 words in length and must be submitted to Coast Electric no later than February 3, 1989.

The Washington Youth Tour is coordinated each year by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA). Local winners will join over 1,000 delegates from electric cooperatives across the nation. The students will participate in seminars on government, rural electrification and cooperatives. They will also visit with members of their Congressional district and tour the historical sites and monuments of the capital.

Coast Electric's winners will also be able to compete for the position of Mississippi State Representative on the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association's Youth Consulting Board. These students meet several times yearly to help promote cooperatives and to assist with the planning and evaluation of the Youth Tour.

Students wanting additional information on the Youth Tour and Essay Contest, can contact Kathy Fernandez or Bill Stechmann at Coast Electric, by calling 1-800-624-3348.

OLA entrance exam slated

The entrance exam for Our Lady Academy will be held at the Bay Catholic Elementary School cafeteria on Saturday, December 3 at 10 a.m. All girls who are interested need to take the test. Testing will be completed by 11 a.m. There is a $3.00 fee payable upon taking the test.

While prospective students are taking the OLA entrance test, a program will be presented by the administration to the parents on OLA's philosophy, goals, and procedures. Parents will have the opportunity to ask questions and take a tour of the facilities.

Journalism Class offered 'hands-on' experience

By Ana Maria Scafidi

Bay High's journalism class, under the direction of Anne Fine, has been given a unique opportunity by The Sea Coast Echo to submit bimonthly columns. These columns will boast important news and events pertaining to Bay High.

Janet McQueen, managing editor of the paper, stated, "The newspaper is here to serve the community, and the youth is part of that community."

McQueen suggested the column and has visited the class to provide suggestions for their articles.

Every student in the 11-member class will have an opportunity to write a column. Each member of the class has been preparing since the beginning of the school year to show his ability to the community. Besides this column, members will aid in the preparation of the school newspaper, The Student Prints. These columns will furnish young journalists with the chance to prepare for their future.

Junior Jason Lindsay commented, "I think it's a good start for beginning journalists."

This is the first year journalism has been available at Bay High as an introductory course. It is a prerequisite to becoming a member of the newspaper staff.

"The students in this class have been waiting for an opportunity like this," stated junior Chris Heaps.

Library staff attends literacy workshop

Staff members of the Hancock County Library System attend an in-service workshop on literacy this week at the main library in Bay St. Louis, according to Prima Wusnack, Library System Director.

The workshop, presented by literacy coordinator Helene Roth, provided staff members with information on the problem of literacy in Hancock County and an overview of the county-wide literacy program.

A demonstration of materials and methods used to teach adults how to read and write was followed by a question and answer period.

"This is a special service of the library," said Wusnack, "and we want all staff members to be able to assist individuals who call or come into our libraries to inquire about the program."

For information on this and other services of the library system, call the headquarters library in Bay St. Louis at 467-5282.

Fireplace, kitchen extras top list of desirable home features

When real estate brokers across the country were asked to name the two or three special features buyers most want in their "dream house," the answer most frequently given was: fireplace.

"Whether you live in Maine or California, a fireplace conjures up images of cozy evenings at home," said Herb Dubuisson, broker/owner, or ERA Bayshore Realty.

The second most popular feature in the ideal home is a special kitchen, according to brokers surveyed.

"The descriptions of what buyers want ranged from an extravagant, large, modern kitchen, to specific appliances, including a built-in microwave, a trash compactor and a computerized kitchen," Dubuisson said.

He said questions about the typical American's "dream house" were part of a recent national real estate poll conducted specifically for ERA real estate by Strategic Research of St. Louis, MO.

Twice a year since 1983, the poll has surveyed the opinions of 400 franchise and non-franchise brokers across the nation, including members of the Real Estate Leaders of America (RELA) and state presidents of the National Association of Realtors.

With "fireplace" and "special kitchen" placing first and second, the following features round out the "Top 10" list:

3. Room for entertaining. This space could be a large family room, "great room," play room or recreation room.

4. Hot tub/jacuzzi. The poll disproves the notion that hot tubs and jacuzzis were merely a fad of the 1970's and no longer popular.

5. Special bathroom. Homeowners today tend to want more spacious bathrooms.

6. Central air/heating.

7. Special bedroom, a master suite or extra-large bedroom is desirable, the survey showed.

8. Garage. "Everyone wants more garage space," Dubuisson said, "and there are still some Edward D. Jones & Co. recently became the first financial services firm to offer insured corporate bonds to individual investors, according to Craig Foster, local representative.

Although municipal bonds have been insured for years, this is the first time a financial services concern has offered insured corporate issues to individuals. Until now, these investments were only available to institutional buyers.

"As a firm that caters to individual investors, we felt it was important to provide smaller investors the same benefits offered by an insured corporate bond," Foster said. "This program enables us to do just that—provide individual investors the diversification that is so important in a portfolio, as well as the peace of mind that enables them to sleep at night knowing their money is insured."

Financial Services Assurance (FSA) of New York insures these bonds as to the timely payment of principal and interest. FSA has the highest claims-paying rating given by the five major rating services including Moody's and Standard & Poor's.

The bonds are sold in increments of $1,000 or less and, if called by the issuer prior to maturity, the owner receives a premium that increases the return over the life of the investment. In addition, an investor can sell the bonds on any business day at the current market price.

Although yields vary, bondholders typically earn two-tenths to four-tenths of 1 percent more than those who own a corporate bond trust, three-quarters of 1 percent more than those who own Treasury bonds of comparable maturities and approximately the same as those who own a non-insured, A-rated corporate bond.

A weekly "Selection and Opinion" section gives a brief accounting of recent financial developments and highlights on an individual stock of particular interest as well as a market overview.

Bid awarded on PRC new technology center

Jay-Van Company of Hattiesburg has been awarded the contract to build the new technology center here on the Pearl River Community College campus.

Jay-Van's $1,807,490 bid was the lowest of eleven submitted here Wednesday. Tilly Construction Company of Gulfport was the second lowest bidder at $1,837,000. Gibbs Construction was the highest bidder at $1,988,000.

The Pearl River College Board of Trustees approved the Jay-Van bid at its regular November meeting. Construction is scheduled to begin Dec. 1 with completion expected within 10 months.

Four alternate deduct bids were not considered because the $1.8 million is well within the $2 million which has been allocated through local, state and federal sources.

Pearl River College was able to match a million dollar grant from the Bureau of Vocational-Technical and Adult Education, a division of the State Department of Education, when the Pearl River County Board of Supervisors agreed to repay one million dollars over a 15-year period.

Pearl River County will add the necessary millage each year to repay the interest and principle on the $1 million bond indebtedness. The local supervisors had agreed to repay up to $145,000 per year, however, it appears only $110,000 will be needed to retire the debt.

New technology programs planned for the facility include automated manufacturing, instrumentation, and banking and finance.

Established technology programs which will move into the facility include drafting and design, electronics, marketing, computer operations, computer programming and three different business technology programs.

Plans are for Bilbo Hall to be renovated to house a new program, Child Care and Development.

The new technology center will free Jefferson Davis Hall for academic classes, and the current vo-tech facility will make way for expanded vocational programs.

Three Foolish Friends

Three friends and a bottle of wine,
Three friends having a good time
Three friends behind a wheel,
Three friends unable to feel...
The danger lurking ahead.
Three friends stoned and reckless as they go,
Wake up three friends, you're riding off the road!

Three foolish friends, down a hill they descended,
Goodbye three friends, your good time has ended.

LOCAL BRIEF

Local H & R Block owner Mary Billiot attended the annual H & R Block Satellite Convention held in Biloxi, Nov. 10-12.

The convention was held for 200 franchise operations in the Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Tennessee, and Arkansas Region No. 22.

In attendance with the franchise owners were James Byers, director of management development and Dolora-Lee Ramsey, regional director for H & R Block.

Satellite directors and owners combined efforts this year in developing the convention materials which included the latest in tax changes as well as management topics and marketing strategies.

Major changes are again in store for individual and business taxpayers, changes which will have quite an effect on 1988 returns. Taxpayers are encouraged to organize tax related materials how and investigate how tax changes or individual life style changes will affect them. Information and record keeping books are available as a public service from the local H & R Block office located at Bay Plaza Suite "L" or by calling 467-6556.
